US ignite, is a not-for-profit organization that is accelerating the smart city movement, by creating value for an entire ecosystem, guiding communities into the connected future, creating a path for private sector growth, and advancing technology research that's at the heart of smart city development. US Ignite has been awarded funding for the "Smart Gigabit Communities" program by National Science Foundation since 2012. This program aims to foster the creation of novel applications and digital experiences that have the potential to transform areas such as traffic, transportation, water quality, job skills training, public safety, energy, education and healthcare.

The City intends to work with the Smart Gigabit Community to access: their high-capacity, low-latency network infrastructure, technical expertise and business partners, civic leaders that have implemented smart city solutions and tools and playbooks that will accelerate Vaughan's Smart City and digital transformation initiatives.

In April, Corporate Services staff attended the US Ignite Application Summit in Denver, Colorado to accept a recognition award as the newest member of the Smart Gigabit Community. It was a successful event highlighted by industry leading keynote speakers; updates on the latest smart city technology trends, demonstrations of applications built by community members, networking opportunities and participation in roundtable discussions.

Staff are excited to be discussing this initiative with other municipal and regional partners to expand the network and create greater synergies.
