

Note that they have blinds. And we can perfectly see the window, as e live in a subdivision.

The second picture is their kitchen window as seen from our backyard.

And the third picture is from the fence between us overlooking the deck:

Note that we have curtains and when needed, we close them.

In addition, our seating arrangement is such that we are sitting with a back to their house:

Note sure what else they would want. We can install a higher fence in between us. However, I don't think it is allowed by by-laws, and they won't have any natural light coming into a window, as fence will be blocking that.
